Alfabeto Morse internazionale

L'alfabeto Morse è un codice di comunicazione internazionale che permette di mandare messaggi per mezzo di segnali luminosi, di un sistema telegrafico o di qualunque altro dispositivo a impulsi. Ogni lettera o cifra è rappresentata da una combinazione di punti e linee, dove ogni linea equivale alla durata di tre punti. Il più noto codice Morse è quello per il segnale di SOS: tre punti, tre linee, tre punti.

Codice internazionale di bandiera

Le bandiere del codice internazionale sono usate in mare e il loro significato è noto in tutto il mondo. Alcune di esse sono utilizzate anche singolarmente come avvertimento o segnale di soccorso: una O significa "uomo in mare", mentre una D avvisa che l'imbarcazione non risponde bene ai comandi.
